Western Weekly:

14th November 2014

Colleagues,

I thought my e-mail account was going to explode last week! I'm not sure how the system changed my newsletter from a .doc file to a .dat file! Let's hope it doesn't happen this week. A huge thank you to all that sent me an e-mail, thank you for helping me re-open a .dat file and for those who enjoy reading our weekly newsletters.

This week in the New Forest a member of public witnessed a 16 year old male enter an insecure vehicle parked on a private driveway, the youth grabbed an expensive jacket containing wallet, mobile phone and sunglasses. The witness decided that it was safe to challenge this male youth and made a citizen's arrest, detaining the youth until Police arrived. The youth was arrested and has been interviewed, it appears that this male youth may have been involved in other offences and he has been Police Bailed for further enquiries. This is an excellent example of community spirit and thoughtfulness, if this male youth was left unchallenged then where would his behaviour lead him? If it is safe to challenge person(s) committing offences then please take positive action, even if you only call the Police and provide as much information about the circumstances of the incident, descriptions and details of the involved person(s) would greatly assist us in apprehending these offenders, a simple photograph of the offender would provide enough evidence to identify and give us the chance to locate and speak with the suspected offender. Christmas is approaching fast, for those of us who are already getting into the festive spirit or just well organised, then criminals are equally getting prepared to take away those gift purchases especially if they are being left in vehicles.

Burglars are also getting prepared this time of the year, they too know that you are all buying in gifts, alcohol and foods stuff. Please do not leave any valuables or wrapped gifts on visible display near windows. They are looking for Christmas trees on display with gifts already placed under them, in our electronic age, they are hopeful to find any item which is easy to take away, especially those electronic gifts which are yet to be registered upon being started up on Christmas day.

If you are going out in the evenings or going away for a Christmas break, then please ensure you are using devices that automatically switch your lights on/off to make it appear that someone is home.

Please do not advertise on Social media that you are going out or going away, even if you have tight security settings, criminals will often find a way to discover who is in or who is away from home, don't give them another easy platform to check.

Kind Regards

Scott Graham
